Tribute to Tobacco

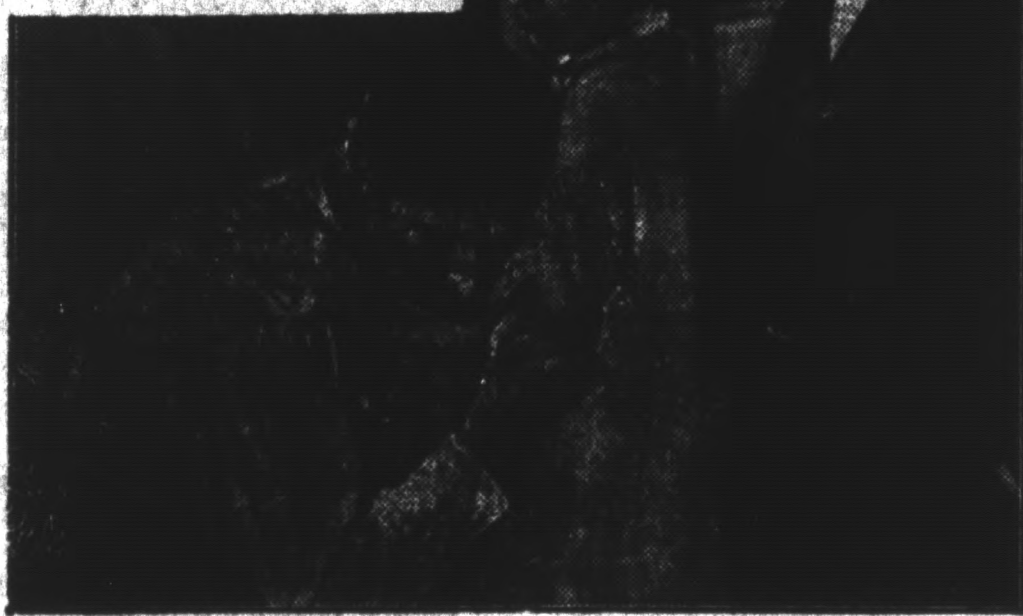

Charles Kingsley's tribute to tobacco is as follows: "When all things were made, none was made better than tobacco; to be a lone man's companion, a bachelor's friend, a hungry man's food, a sad man's cordial, a wakeful man's sleep and a chilly man's fire. There's no herb like it under the canopy of heaven."

Something in This Name!

With the recent election of Charles E. Wilson as president of General Motors corporation, there are now three men with this name holding down key jobs in large American industries. The others: Charles E. Wilson, president of General Electric company, and Charles E. Wilson, vice president of Worthington Pump & Machinery corporation.

Jabez Comes Home At Last

Apple Sauce Cookies
3 1/4 cups sifted cake flour; 1 teaspoon cinnamon; 1/4 teaspoon cloves; 1 teaspoon salt; 2 teaspoons soda; 1/2 cup butter or other shortening; 1 teaspoon lemon rind; 1 cup sugar; 2 eggs, unbeaten; 1 1/2 cups apple sauce; 1/4 cup chopped nut meats.

Sift flour once, measure, add spices, salt, and soda, and sift three times. Cream butter and lemon rind, add sugar gradually, creaming until light and fluffy. Add eggs and beat well. Add flour, alternately with apple sauce, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Add nuts. Drop from teaspoon on greased baking sheet 2 inches apart. Bake in hot oven (400° F.) 8 to 10 minutes. Makes about 6 dozen cookies.

GET MORE OUT OF LIFE

Spécialités de la Maison

THIS French phrase always suggests something delightful to eat — specialties of the house, — those delicious foods that particular hostesses know how to make better than anyone else and which are favorites of the family and friends. Perhaps the spécialité is waffles or griddle cakes; perhaps it is a cake, a coffee bread, a dessert, or a pie. In any case, whenever such a spécialité is made, it can be a most welcome reason for a party.

One of my friends specializes in apple pies of all varieties, which are always served Sunday afternoons about five, with huge cups of steaming hot coffee, and plain or whipped cream, or with scalding hot milk.

The service is very easy. This hostess puts a cloth on the living room table and brings in a big tray containing a huge apple pie, surrounded with a variety of apple tarts, — apple-and-date, apple-meringue, apple-cocoanut, apple-mince. Another tray contains the "fixins," — hard sauce to serve on warm pie; thin slices of American cheese; balls of cream cheese; and sometimes eggnog ice cream or a brick of mocha ice cream for pie à la mode. The coffee service is arranged on a separate tray.

Each person takes a small tray and helps himself to coffee and the kind of pie he likes best.

One of the kinds of apple pie which this hostess serves is made almost as it was a century ago. Here is the recipe:

Buttered Apple Pie

Line a pie plate with flaky pie crust made with enriched flour. Pare, quarter and core six tart apples and lay them in the plate. Sprinkle with $\frac{1}{2}$ cup granulated or moist light brown sugar, dot with 2 tablespoons butter, and add the grated rind of an orange. Put on the top crust and bake 40 minutes. If you like, the top crust may be brushed with beaten egg before baking and sprinkled with chopped nuts.

A second type of apple pie, — an old Boston favorite, — was evolved when Colonial cooks could not let well enough alone, and invented a sort of spiced apple-sauce pie. It may be baked in the form of a large tart with a criss cross crust, or as little tarts; and it is equally good plain, or topped with whipped cream and cinnamon.

Boston Apple Pie

Peel, core and chop nine apples and place in a stew pan with one-half cup water, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoon clove, an eighth teaspoon salt, and the grated rind of one lemon. Stew soft; sweeten with one cup sugar and rub through a sieve. Then add two tablespoons butter, the yolks of four beaten eggs and one stiffly beaten white, a little nutmeg, and one tablespoon lemon juice. Line a large deep pie plate with pastry; put on the apple filling, cover with criss cross strips of pastry, and bake about 30 minutes in a moderately hot oven.

First Mace

The mace was provided for by a resolution adopted by the house during the first congress on April 14, 1789. The first mace used by the house was destroyed by fire when the British burned the Capitol in 1814. From that time until 1843 a mace of painted wood served. In that year the present mace was made in reproduction of the original. It is over three feet in height and consists of a bundle of ebony rods, representing the states, bound with a band of silver in imitation of the fasces. From the center protrudes the stem of a silver globe surmounted by a silver eagle with outspread wings.

Like Bliskrieg Sweeps Sweden

Pedestrians in Stockholm, Sweden, are warned to watch out for bicycles, because there is no longer any gasoline for automobiles. The newspapers carry special columns devoted exclusively to casualties of cycle collisions.

Washington Post March

John Philip Sousa's "Washington Post March" was dedicated to the paper of the same name and was first played by the United States Marine band under Sousa's baton on June 15, 1896, on the grounds of the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D. C.

The Way To A Soldier's Heart

By BETTY BARCLAY

J — is for Jellies and Jams

A — is for Army camps and Appetites

M — suggests a Mixture of the two

Well, we homemakers don't want to miss an opportunity to keep our boys supplied with any of the homemade spreads that make them so happy. Army food is good, but a selection of jams and jellies made with sun-ripened fruits are always welcomed by hungry soldiers.

So now that fruits are in abundance . . . let's remember both our soldier and our family at home. Modern recipes always assure us of a perfect product and they save both time and energy. Each tested recipe turns out jellies with a half-minute boil and jams in only a minute or so. Every batch of fruit means half again more glasses and the rich flavor of fully ripe fruit. Try these today!

RIPE PEACH AND PLUM JELLY

(Makes about 7 medium glasses)

3 cups juice

4 cups sugar

1 box powdered fruit pectin

To prepare juice, cut in pieces (do not peel or pit) and crush about 3 pounds fully ripe peaches and 1 pound fully ripe plums. Add $\frac{1}{2}$ cup water, bring to a boil, and simmer, covered, 10 minutes. Place fruit in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice. (If there is a slight shortage of juice, add small amount of water to pulp in jelly cloth and squeeze again.)

Measure sugar into dry dish and set aside until needed. Measure juice into a 3- to 4-quart saucepan.

Place over hottest fire. Add powdered fruit pectin, mix well, and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once pour in sugar, stirring constantly. Continue stirring, bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard $\frac{1}{2}$ minute.

Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once.

RIPE PLUM MARMALADE

3 cups prepared fruit

5 cups sugar

$\frac{1}{2}$ bottle fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, peel off yellow rind of 1 medium orange and 1 medium lemon with sharp knife, leaving as much of white part on fruit as possible. Put yellow rinds through food chopper; add $\frac{1}{2}$ cup water and $1\frac{1}{8}$ teaspoon soda, bring to a boil, cover, and simmer 10 minutes. Cut off tight skin of peeled fruit and slip pulp out of each section. Add pulp and juice to cooked rind and simmer, covered, 20 minutes longer. Pit (do not peel) about $1\frac{1}{2}$ pounds fully ripe plums. Cut in small pieces, grind or chop fine, and combine with orange mixture.

Measure sugar and prepared fruit into large kettle, filling up last cup with water if necessary. Mix well.

Bring to a boil and boil gently 5 minutes. Stir constantly before and while boiling.

Remove from fire and stir in bottled fruit pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for just 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Pour quickly. Paraffin hot marmalade at once. Makes about 8 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

Stretching The Jellies

By Frances Lee Barton

ABOUT this time of year the jelly shelf begins to look bare, no matter how plentifully we have stocked it during the preserving season. Somehow or other, both men and children can never get enough of these "spoon victuals."

Here is a jelly stretch that may be prepared when few fresh fruits or berries are available — a delightful change, as well.

Carrot Marmalade

4 cups (3 lbs.) prepared carrot and citrus mixture; 7 cups (3 lbs.) sugar; $\frac{1}{2}$ bottle fruit pectin.

To prepare carrot and citrus mixture, cook about 3 pounds carrots until tender; drain and grind or chop fine. Add grated rind of 2 medium oranges and 2 medium lemons. Peel oranges and dice, discarding hard centers and seeds. Squeeze lemons. Add orange pulp and lemon juice to carrots. If desired, add 2 to 3 teaspoons ginger or cinnamon.

Measure sugar and prepared mixture, solidly packed, into large kettle. Mix well, bring to a boil, and boil gently 5 minutes. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Remove from fire and stir in bottled fruit pectin. Pour quickly. Paraffin hot marmalade at once. Makes about 10 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

Gymnasts

A gymnast is a center of attraction, anything to which attention is strongly turned. The root meaning in Greek is dog's tail, and the word was originally applied to the constellation Ursa Minor, to which the eyes of mariners and travelers were often directed because it contained the North Star.

CIVILIAN DEFENSE PLANNING

I am planning to spend a little while thinking out problems of organization. We have, in my department in the Office of Civilian Defense a number of divisions reaching out through the regional bureaus down to the community level. I am convinced, however, that we need one over-all planning group, and two other groups to meet those needs by the use of every available agency, public and private. This over-all planning group will tie in all the other divisions and use them to the best advantage, besides working closely with the civilian protection organization. The whole picture will be able to meet new needs and unexpected demands as well as those situations which already exist.

I have always held that a good organization should function in whatever way you planned it to function. In this particular case, I think it important for the heads of the Office of Civilian Defense to keep in close touch with the regional offices and to see as much of different localities as possible.

The day when I shall be satisfied that my small part of the Civilian Defense Office will go on, whether I am on hand or not, has not yet come. I feel sure that it will soon be accomplished, particularly with the able leadership heading up the various divisions, and all the people who have been my close assistants working with Mrs. Henry Morgenthau Jr.

STUDENT FEDERATION

One Sunday morning I left New York city for Minneapolis, Minn., for I had promised some time ago to spend a little while at the convention held there by the National Student Federation. This organization is composed of the elected heads of student government bodies and can be of great value in directing the thought and activities of these young college people, many of whom are going to be leaders of their association.

I read an editorial written by Dr. Alvin Johnson, the director of the New School for Social Research, in New York city, in their bi-weekly bulletin, and I could not help thinking how valuable a stimulus to young people this type of short article might be.

The outstanding thought in it is, that in the past, at the end of periods of great crisis, we have tried to reconstitute the past to the future:

"The physicists have discovered the possibility of penetrating the black fog of London with infra-red rays. Reason is, after all, a kind of infra-red ray."

We should use our reason to understand the meaning of the past and to shape our action in the future. We have learned what not to do. Have we the courage and foresight to begin to build a new order when this crisis is over?

TWO WAY PASSAGE

Since mentioning Mr. Louis Adamic's "Two Way Passage" I have finished the book. I thought it showed keen insight into the various strains which make up the United States. Whether his plan for a two-way passage is possible, just as he describes it, or not, only time will show. One thing is sure, this two-way passage must serve to interpret what we have accomplished in this nation by way of good will and better understanding.

This puts upon us in this country a tremendous responsibility to live up to our theories of democracy and make them a reality in every part of our own country. We must live down our prejudices, whatever they may be, and be sure that we make every act of ours conform to our Bill of Rights, and to the highest ideals of a democratic nation.

RELAXATION

A few people came in to tea one afternoon. The President worked right through with the prime minister and others, so we were late for an eight o'clock dinner. The President made up his mind that they had all worked enough and needed relaxation, so we had a movie, which apparently was just the right thing for the occasion. It was called "The Maltese Falcon," and as far as I could discover was a mixture between an old-fashioned melodrama and a detective story.

I had to work and wasn't quite sure that I was up to anything as exciting as this movie promised to be. I joined the party at the end of the picture and found everybody completely restored to working capacity. They had really been engrossed in the picture and were then able to turn back and to go to work for another hour or so.

IMPORTANT PROBLEMS

I spent nearly two hours one morning with some of the officials of the Bureau of the Budget over the estimates for the coming three months for the Office of Civilian Defense. A number of people came to lunch, among them Dr. John Studebaker, education commissioner.

He has such an extended program for forums all over the country that I wanted to discuss with him the possibilities which lie ahead in education through forum groups in matters relating to civilian defense.

License Drive

In an effort to lock the barn before the horse is stolen, Michigan plans to stiffen driver's license requirements under a program worked out by state authorities in co-operation with safety and law enforcement agencies. More difficult tests will be given applicants for licenses under the new plan and a series of institutes will be held throughout the state to instruct license examiners in conducting the tests.

Ham 'n Pineapple SCORE AGAIN

ALTHOUGH ham and Pineapple have been "going together" in the hands of good cooks for years, there are still new ways to combine the traditional twosome. One of the very newest is to arrange alternate slices of juicy Canned Pineapple and cured boneless butt in a loaf pan, cover with a raisin sauce made with the syrup drained from the Pineapple, and bake until tender. It's a prize in any man's language.

In selecting a boneless butt for such a purpose, it is best to choose one that is uniformly large throughout, rather than one which is chunky at one end and tapering at the other. The largest size of Canned Pineapple Slices, which is as large as the standard size of a 2-pound boneless pork butt, will work admirably. These slices come 4 or 8 to a can, depending on the size of the container, and need only to be drained before using.

This ham and Pineapple dish capitalizes on easy service. Since the meat is sliced into serving-size pieces as part of the preparation of the dish, all the person who serves must do is to lift the slices onto the plates and spoon out the tangy, Pineapple Raisin sauce. On occasions where "the guest helps himself" is the prevailing rule, no hostess need fear that even the most unhandy guest will have difficulty in serving himself from this delicious "Slices-In-Sauce" combination. Not when it is as well-loved a flavor twosome as ham with Pineapple!

And in feeding a mixed group of people, there is no hostess who will not feel more peace of mind because she knows that the food she has planned and prepared is as universally liked as are the uniquely refreshing flavor of Canned Pineapple and the rosy tender slices of well-cured pork. Directions for preparing the dish are given below.

BAKED HAM AND PINEAPPLE SLICES

(Makes 8 servings)

- 10 slices Hawaiian Canned Pineapple (3 15-ounce cans)
- 1 boneless smoked butt (about 2 pounds)
- ¾ cup brown sugar (army packed)
- 1½ tablespoons cornstarch
- ¾ cup liquid (syrup drained from Pineapple slices and water)
- 3 tablespoons vinegar
- ¼ cup raisins

Drain Pineapple Slices and reserve the syrup. Add water to make ¾ cup. Cut the smoked butt in slices of the same thickness as the Pineapple Slices. Arrange Pineapple and ham slices alternately in a loaf pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) for 30 minutes. Meanwhile, mix the brown sugar and cornstarch in a saucepan. Add the Pineapple syrup and water mixture and vinegar and cook until the sauce thickens (about 5 minutes). Add raisins and pour over the ham and Pineapple Slices. Bake 30 minutes more, or until the ham is tender. Serve hot.

Statue on Capitol
Not so well known, perhaps, as the Statue of Liberty, the statue which crowns the dome of the nation's Capitol at Washington takes on great significance at this time. The statue is that of Freedom, armed with helmet, shield and sheathed sword. The bronze statue is 19½ feet high, weighs 15,000 pounds. It was set in place, 307½ feet above the esplanade, December 2, 1923. "Freedom" is the work of Thomas Crawford, an American artist. The original model is in the Smithsonian Institution.

The institution is supported in part by generous donors who are interested in the promotion of social service. The institute is particularly proud of its premarital service, which is offered to those about to wed who want help in making their marriage a success. Every couple who have taken this service before marriage are still married, so far as is known.

SAFEGWAY'S WINTER FOOD CARNIVAL

and VALUE

When oranges, lemons or grapefruit are advertised as "large," it's pretty hard to tell how large—so you can't tell if it's a bargain or not. Also almost everyone has had the experience of paying more for large oranges or grapefruit and then discovering that they did not give as much value as smaller ones priced less. At Safeway the cost per orange, grapefruit or lemon is computed by weight, so that no matter what size you buy—large or small—you are assured of full value for your money—and remember, every produce purchase is guaranteed to please you or all your money back.
